About Me

I am a former interior designer, a Brazilian and European citizen based in Dublin who found out that web development is what I love to do. Design, technology, and attending music concerts are my passions.

I enjoy working in teams, sharing knowledge, and completing projects that call for patience and thoroughness.

I graduated as a full-stack developer from Ironhack in 2022, and now I'm currently looking for an opportunity as a front-end developer.
